

Global Opportunities Commentary

SECOND QUARTER 2020

This quarter, we are pleased to announce that SouthernSun Asset Management will acquire Affiliated Managers Group's interest in our Firm in a transaction funded solely by key employees. This significant milestone means that, for the first time in our proud 31-year history, SouthernSun will be a 100% employee-owned and operated independent Firm. We want to take this opportunity to emphasize how excited we are to invest in the people, processes and infrastructure that will ensure alignment between the Firm's interests and yours.

Our underlying rationale for the decision to reacquire the Firm will sound familiar to those of you who know what we look for when evaluating companies for our investment portfolios. Specifically:

- Financial Flexibility: Our 100% cash transaction is debt-free, further strengthens SouthernSun's financial flexibility, and will be immediately accretive to the Firm.
- Management Adaptability: Our proven decision makers and seasoned leadership team, who collectively possess an average of 24 years of management experience, have navigated a wide variety of business, marketplace, and economic environments. In other words, we have seen more than most, and we believe that that kind of experience will be rewarded given these volatile and uncertain times.
- The SouthernSun Niche: Our enduring strength over the years has been our steadfast commitment to our investment philosophy and process. Our success stems in large part from always knowing who we are, what we do well, and faithfully applying a time-tested discipline.

Perhaps most importantly, we believe this transaction is significant because of the unique convergence between SouthernSun's independent status and the current market dislocation across the Small Cap and SMID Cap investment space. This is a real and meaningful opportunity, and it means we can act - quickly and opportunistically - to make investment decisions that should yield great returns for our clients. And that, more than anything else, is what we wake up every morning to do.

For the second quarter of 2020, the Global Opportunities Composite returned approximately +28.70% on a gross basis (+28.50% net) versus the MSCI AC World Index, which returned +19.22% and the MSCI AC World Small Cap Value, which returned +19.74%, over the same period. On a year-to-date basis, the composite returned approximately -16.16% on a gross basis (-16.43% net) versus the MSCI AC World Index, which returned -6.25% and the MSCI AC World Small Cap Value, which returned -21.84% over the same period.

Dycom Industries, Inc., the specialty contractor for telecommunications infrastructure, was the leading contributor on an absolute basis in the quarter. Although revenues were slightly down, the company effectively managed costs and was able to deliver better than expected margins. The effect of COVID-19 on the business has been minimal so far and most of Dycom's crews have been allowed to continue performing construction, although permitting has been slow in some parts of the country. Major customers have strong, resilient businesses and have indicated that they plan to continue making investments in their networks. We believe the pandemic has reinforced and perhaps accelerated demand for the telecommunications networks that Dycom builds and maintains.

De' Longhi, another leading contributor on an absolute basis in the quarter, reported solid results with revenue growth of 5% driven by the continued double-digit growth of coffee machine sales. E-commerce sales have been strong and have helped to offset some of the decline in the brick and mortar channel resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic. Although some of the company's manufacturing facilities were shut down late in the quarter due to the pandemic, all facilities are now back up and running at full capacity. The company's strong product lineup, strong brand, net cash balance sheet, and control by the long-term, owner-oriented De' Longhi family give us confidence the company is well positioned for the future.

The Brink's Co., the global leader in total cash management, was the leading detractor on an absolute basis in the quarter as the COVID-19 pandemic had a substantial impact on first-quarter results. Retail customer make up roughly 45% of Brink's revenues and around half of those are in harder hit businesses such as restaurants and apparel, although the other half provide essential services such as grocery, pharmacy, and gas, which are fairing better. Financial institutions represent another 45% of Brink's revenues and these customers have been, for the most part, resilient throughout the pandemic. Although service volumes are expected to be dramatically lower in the second quarter, the company's cost structure is highly variable and recent cost cuts by management are expected to provide significant benefit in the back half of the year. Management believes the company will generate positive free cash flow in 2020 and their strong balance sheet and liquidity will allow them to weather the storm as well as execute on their growth strategies. At recent prices, we continue to be very favorable on the risk/reward as we see a substantial disconnect between current views and intrinsic value.

JC Decaux, the number one outdoor advertising company worldwide, had a difficult first quarter as the company's airport and public transportation advertising locations were significantly affected by the decrease in traffic caused by the COVID-19 pandemic. Management expects street furniture and billboard advertising sales to bounce back fairly quickly as people start to move around more freely, although airport and public transport advertising will likely take longer to recover. The company is taking steps to adapt to the environment by reducing headcount, initiating lease re-negotiations, cutting the dividend, and raising one billion euros of long-term debt at attractive rates. However, management is also keeping an eye out for opportunity by announcing a bid for a 23% ownership stake in Clear Media, the largest operator of bus shelter advertising panels China. Although we expect near-term results to be significantly impacted by the pandemic, we believe the company is well managed, competitively advantaged, and has a long run way to increase profitability by converting static advertisements to digital.

We believe that the market volatility that we have seen in 2020 plays to our strengths. We have been able to take advantage of lower prices by adding to existing high-conviction holdings and initiating new positions at attractive entry points. The research that we had done on new ideas paid off – in that, we were ready to make decisions when prices became attractive. We believe the quality of the portfolio is high. While volatility is likely to continue due to the unstable macro environment, the high quality of the portfolio, along with our strategies' historical performance coming out of downturns, gives us confidence for the future.
